SUPPORT THE DUNNES WORKERS

DUNNES workers are on strike for union rights. They are fighting:

■ To stop being forced to work on Sundays for a flat rate.

■ To end the system of 'zero-contracts'. Part time workers at Dunnes can be called in at any time to work—but they are never given guaranteed hours. Only one in ten of Dunnes workers have permanent jobs.

■ To have their union fully recognised. Dunnes bosses have refused to negotiate with MANDATE properly.

Dunnes are fantastically wealthy—but they treat their workers terribly. Each year they make nearly £140 million in profit. But their greed for profit knows no end.

If Dunnes got away with their demands then every other employer would be encouraged to attack workers. More young workers would be subject to 1913 style conditions where they are 'casual'—with no holiday pay or rights to a pension. But Dunnes can be beaten by solidarity.

What you can do

■ Don't Pass the Picket lines: Remember that the bar staff won last year when customers refused to pass pickets during the World Cup.

■ Organise Collections at Work: Dunnes hope to starve the workers back to work. Take leaflets into your job and ask people for a collection. Invite a Dunnes speaker to explain their case. Try to make it a regular levy.

Join the Socialists

DUNNES shows what Irish capitalists are like. They put the greed for profit before people's lives. Socialists fight for a system where we produce for need; where we end great divisions of wealth; where workers get a chance to control their offices, factories and shops. Join us in the fight.
